FIFTY CENTS

'We can make a difference'

By Bob Slate
Staff writer

For Rosemarie Brown, being elected president of the Granite City Rotary Club was more significant than the fact that she was the first woman ever to hold the office.

"I don't think it is that important that I'm the first female, but that club had confidence in me to elect me president," she said.

Brown, who owns a public relations firm in Granite City along with her husband, Dan, recently completed her year as the Rotary club's highest ranking officer.

And what a year it was. "The most rewarding thing about Rotary is seeing all the things we, as an organization, can do," she said. "We can make a difference and I think our Rotary Club has made a difference."

The Rotary motto is "service above self." Among the club's community contributions this year: sponsorship of a free immunization clinic at Marsh Elementary School for 400 needy children; sponsorship of two Granite City High School students to study in Europe for a year; purchase of exercise equipment for the walking track at Wilson Park; preservation of a mural that depicts life in Granite City; sponsorship of monthly community action prayer breakfasts, a forum where issues of vital community interest were discussed, and

Heat wave sends seven to hospital

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

St. Elizabeth Medical Center had treated seven people for heat-related illnesses as of Friday as the high temperatures continue to take a toll.

Two of the seven were in intensive care during the week before improving, hospital officials said. Both had suffered severe heat stroke after being found unconscious outdoors.

One of the victims was reported to have had a body temperature of 110 degrees when brought to the hospital.

The hospital is bracing for more cases as temperatures hover in the 90s through the weekend.

According to the National Weather Service, temperatures topped 100 degrees both Wednesday and Thursday, and was expected to be around 100 degrees Friday. On Wednesday, the temperature reached 100 degrees, Thursday's high of 101 degrees was reached at 2:46 p.m.

NWS meteorologist Ted Schroeder said the weekend forecast was for slightly cooler temperatures in the low 90s, with a chance of thunderstorms Sunday.

A cool front coming through Sunday will bring lows in the mid 60s, and highs in the mid 80s or low 90s through Tuesday.

Kathleen Gauen, director of emergency services at the hospital, said the two heat stroke cases were both brought in between 3:30 and 4:30 p.m. Wednesday. One was reportedly

Is it hot enough for you? It's not the heat, it's the humidity...

It's hot enough to fry an egg on the sidewalk. Actually, it is quite hot enough for me. I might add that it was more than hot enough for me in early April. And I would gladly take a humid 90-degree day over a humid 100-degree day.

As far as the egg thing goes, I tried that Thursday afternoon with the help of photographer Pam Doepke-Hurd, and in two attempts, we achieved nothing but a slightly discolored yolk and a mess.

As temperatures climb into the lower billions, everybody is trying to cope as best they can.

For some, it means going to the pool, or staying inside, or drinking lots and lots of water.

At St. Elizabeth Medical Center, they were preparing for more heat victims, and fielding calls from people found in a car; the other collapsed on the sidewalk. Both were in serious but stable condition on Friday. The names of the victims were not released. Heat stroke occurs when body

Officials mourn death of Harris

Flags flew at half-staff Thursday at the Madison County Courthouse in honor of longtime county Supervisor of Assessments Robert A. Harris.

Harris, 61, of Granite City, died Wednesday night at Barnes Hospital in St. Louis after entering the hospital earlier this week for heart surgery.

"He will be greatly missed in that office," said County Board Chairman Nelson Hagmann, a friend of Harris since they were childhood neighbors. "He was good with people and he was good with his employees."

"It's a shock to all of us," said Debbie Ming, chief deputy supervisor of assessments. "He's going to be truly missed around here."

A former Granite City firefighter, Harris subjected himself to a different kind of heat when he accepted an appointment to the county's Board of Review in 1978 and then became supervisor of assessments in 1985. He earned praise for fairness in both jobs.

"He was firm but fair," Hagmann said. "He listened to everyone and treated everyone alike. If he couldn't help someone, he would do his best to explain why."

Triplets shortstop Jason Wood

Wood: Mr. Consistency

By Rob Raphael
Staff writer

In a season in which Tri-City Triplets manager Doug Winfield is never quite sure what he's going to see on the field, the one constant he can count on every night is Jason Wood.

Wood has been Tri-City's top hitter this summer, after swinging a pretty solid bat for the Granite City Warriors during the spring baseball season.

"There's no doubt that he's the one player I can depend on every night," Winfield said recently.

"I have learned a lot in every game this summer, and his play at shortstop has been consistent too."

After a splendid week at the plate where he contributed a three-run homer against District 22 rival Collinsville, Wood is hitting at a lofty .435 pace this summer.

For the Warriors this past spring, Wood led the team with a .378 average.

"I have learned a lot in the last year, and especially this summer," said Wood, who will enter St. Louis University this fall. "I'm swinging the bat pretty well right now. I'm seeing the ball well and I'm comfortable in the batter's box."

"There's no doubt that he's the one player I can depend on every night. He's hit in just about every game this summer, and his play at shortstop has been consistent too."

— Doug Winfield
Triplets manager

Wood said he is looking forward to attending SLU, where he said the competition should be "interesting for him next year."

Certainly, it will be to opposing pitchers, who will be most interested in what Wood can do at that level.

Although he had a good spring, Wood said that Tri-City coach Jim Greenwald taught him something this summer, and it has paid off handsomely.

To see what change Wood made this summer, and to read more about the Triplets' most consistent hitter, see Sports on Page 1B.

Bust yields thousands in cash

Granite City Police Chief Dave Ruebhausen displays some of the contraband confiscated by the department's undercover drug team Wednesday in a bust on Madison Avenue.

Granite City Police Chief Dave Ruebhausen's two-man undercover drug investigation unit has paid quick dividends.

On Wednesday, the unit — activated June 19 — executed a search warrant on a Madison Avenue residence and confiscated more than $5,000 cash.

The search warrant, obtained after a two-week investigation, also yielded about a quarter of a pound of marijuana, a stolen gun, two pagers and a small quantity of diazepam (the generic name for Valium).

James N. Pourdas, 27, of the 2600 block of Madison Avenue, was charged Thursday with unlawful possession of cannabis with the intent to deliver, unlawful possession of a controlled substance and being a felon in possession of a firearm.

Bond on the warrant is $40,000. Ruebhausen said the undercover unit, consisting of two of the officers responsible for the closure of the Granite City Lodge earlier this year due to drug and prostitution activity, is sending a message to drug dealers in the city.

"We're going to make it as uncomfortable as we can for folks to do this kind of business in Granite City," Ruebhausen said. "Although it leaves the patrol unit short-handed, I felt (activating the undercover drug team) was necessary."

"This was just a shot across the bow," one of the officers said. Bent said Klenke was apparently 100 miles from the site of the accident.

Ruebhausen said the department spent $50 cash during the course of the investigation. He said the confiscated cash will be placed in the department's drug fund to be used in future investigations.

"This unit will be responding to citizen complaints about alleged drug activity. Anyone suspecting such activity should call the police department at 876-9027," Ruebhausen said.

Fire closes grocery store for one week

While a fire last week at Food For Less, 1125 Madison Ave., Madison, did only minor structural damage, smoke damage will keep it closed at least one more week.

Manager Leonard Perry said the store suffered minor damage during an electrical fire in a meat case on July 9. However, he said that because of extensive smoke damage, the store's entire stock is being replaced.

On Thursday, workers were taking out all the remaining stock that was being removed. After that is complete, the store will be cleaned and restocked, Perry said.

He said a salvage company has purchased all the store's canned goods.

The store is expected to reopen Monday, July 24.

Body identified as accident victim

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

The body of a man found Wednesday in the Mississippi River south of Interstate 270 has been positively identified as a victim of a boating accident in Franklin County, Mo.

According to the Madison County Sheriff's Department, the man was identified as Paul A. Klenke, 38, of Union, Mo. He apparently died after falling off a small boat on the Missouri River July 6.

The accident was investigated by the Missouri State Water Patrol and the Franklin County Sheriff's Department. It has been ruled an accident, said water patrol Cpl. Charles Bent.

Klenke's body was discovered by two Missouri fishermen at about 7 p.m. Wednesday evening on the west side of Missouri Island. The body was recovered at about 10 p.m.

The body was found approximately 100 miles from the site of the accident.

An autopsy was performed Thursday afternoon by Dr.

Mary Case of the St. Louis County Medical Examiner's office. The official cause of death is listed as drowning.

Bent said Klenke was apparently in a boat traveling at a high speed when he was thrown out during a turn. Klenke may have been struck by the boat.

HIV transmission guilty plea

A 21-year-old Cahokia woman who is HIV positive pleaded guilty Monday to having unprotected sex with a man for three months.

Caretha Russell will be sentenced Aug. 30 before Circuit Judge Lloyd Cuto after pleading guilty to a Class 2 felony charge of criminal transmission of the HIV.

The state's attorney's office had no negotiations with Russell's attorney on the charge, leaving her open to serving anywhere from three to seven years in prison or up to four years of probation.

Russell, formerly of Belleville, was charged in March after the man learned that she was HIV positive. The two had had intimate contact from November through January before he learned about the disease.

Russell was the first person charged in St. Clair County under the HIV transmission law in 1991 for knowingly engaging in intimate contact with a man.

Fire destroys Relleke barn

75 firefighters battle blaze; loss estimated at $60,000

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Spontaneous combustion is being blamed for a fire that destroyed a barn on Sand Prairie Lane near Cahokia Mounds on Thursday night.

The barn was part of Relleke Farms. There were no injuries, but damage was estimated at about $60,000 for the barn. Also destroyed were 5,000 bales of straw, 1,000 bales of hay and several pieces of machinery inside.

The blaze was fought by approximately 75 firefighters from six departments. Chief Danny Kreher of the Long Lake Fire Department said the fire was reported at approximately 7:19 p.m. After Long Lake firefighters arrived, mutual aid was requested from the Mitchell, Troy, Glen Carbon, South Roxana and State Park fire departments.

Firefighters finally left the scene at about 1 a.m. Friday. Kreher said most of the aid was needed to transport water to the site, located almost four miles from a hydrant. Until they laid a hose to a nearby pond, a steady procession of fire trucks went back and forth between the fire and water supply.

"It's a rural area, so we were hauling (from a hydrant) at Illinois 111 and Arlington Road," he said. "We finally laid about 1,500 feet of four-inch line to a pond."

Kreher said firefighters took extra precautions because of the intense heat.

Firefighters worked in shifts, and a small air-conditioned bus from the Madison County Transit Authority was used to cool them down.

Three ambulance companies were also on the scene in case any firefighters were overcome, but Kreher said none were. John Relleke said the fire was discovered by his sister-in-law, Donna Streid, who was feeding a calf near the barn.

"She was getting ready to leave and spotted the smoke," he said.

When Relleke arrived, he said, it was too late to save the barn, but he went to get a tractor to pull some of the machinery out. By the time he returned, it was too late for that.

"We couldn't even get near it," he said.

3-year-old being treated for rare illness

By Nicole Vaughn
Staff writer

At a family reunion earlier this month, 3-year-old Heather Villier gleefully played in a sandbox with her cousins. The next day, Heather was stricken with a high fever that frightened her mother, Lori Miller, 22, of Granite City. After consulting a local physician, Miller took her daughter to Cardinal Glennon Children's Hospital in St. Louis.

A series of tests found masses of Wilms' tumors — a rare form of cancer found in children — on both of her kidneys.

"She's in the fifth stage of the disease and it's bilateral (on both kidneys)," said Wayne Price of New Baden. Heather's great-uncle. "It's only the fourth case like that they've diagnosed this year."

Fewer than 500 cases occur nationwide each year. Heather has been staying with her grandparents, Ray and Jeannie Villier of Collinsville, where her mother will also be moving soon.

Price said, Jeannie Villier is Price's sister.

Price said that Heather will be beginning nine weeks of chemotherapy in an effort to shrink the tumors before they are surgically removed.

"It's going to be a hard year," Price said.

Heather's mother is no stranger to the treatment her daughter is facing. Price said Miller was diagnosed with uterine cancer during her pregnancy with Heather. She is currently in remission.

To help prepare her daughter for one of the treatment's side effects — hair loss — Miller got her own hair cut very short last week.

Heather, whose dark brown locks hung down past her shoulders, later did the same.

"They thought it would be better and not scare her as much to see little pieces (of her hair) falling out instead of long strands," Price said.

Price has spearheaded efforts to help raise money for Heather's medical treatment, which is already starting to add up. Two trust funds have been established.

Pontoon Beach agrees to pay for special census

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

The Pontoon Beach Village Board has approved plans for a special census that could provide about $70,000 in additional revenue each year.

The board voted 5-1 Tuesday to approve the census. Trustee Bob Vincent cast the only negative vote.

The cost will be $34,458. Of that, $26,300 will go to the U.S. Census Bureau and the remaining $8,158 will pay for local workers.

The board has been considering the special census for several months.

The 1990 census set Pontoon Beach's official population at 4,013.

Mayor Glen Wilson said Wednesday he expects the population to increase by at least 1,000. The increase comes from annexations and growth since the 1990 census.

In 1993, the village annexed the Holiday Inn and Home Park, which contains approximately 225 mobile homes. Village officials have said that annexation

"I figure 5,000 or better. It should more than pay for itself."

— Glen Wilson
Pontoon mayor

alone boosted the village's population by at least 500.

"I figure 5,000 or better," Wilson said. "It should more than pay for itself."

Such an increase would bring in at least $70,000 — mostly state funds like the Motor Fuel Tax and state income tax, which are distributed on a per capita basis.

In other business, the board tabled action on an ordinance de-annexing the Rapp farm.

The 11-acre farm, owned by Gary Rapp, is located on Cargill Road between Granite City and Pontoon Beach.

It was annexed into the village in March 1994.

Second reading and passage of the ordinance was delayed so Rapp's attorney could go over the agreement.

Venice cuts meeting short

The Venice City Council cut short its regular meeting Tuesday night after the air conditioner failed.

Mayor Tyrone Echols said the council met long enough to pay the bills and pass a resolution to allow Venice firefighters to participate in a training fire July 22.

"The air conditioning went out so we got out of there as quick as we could," Echols said.

"It was roasting hot up there."

Pontoon Beach meeting lively

Library appointment questioned

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Arguments between trustees, between trustees and audience members, and complaints about excess spending and nepotism kept things lively at the Pontoon Beach Village Board meeting Tuesday evening.

The first outbreak came during consideration of the bills, when Trustee Mike Maccek questioned paying Librarian Mary Shafer $200.

Because Shafer was a member of the library board, Maccek said he did not think she could be paid for working in the library.

The library is controlled by a board, which is overseen by the village board's library committee.

Village Attorney Keith Jensen said the two offices were not compatible.

Former village trustee Janet Barringer said Shafer had recently resigned from the board and taken over as librarian after the previous librarian had quit. However, Trustee Irene Karlechik, who chairs the board's library committee, said she had not been informed of the resignation.

Several audience members questioned why the matter was so important.

"We have to make a big deal because it was done illegally," he said.

At that point Shafer said she would resign and hand everything over to the village, which would force the library's closure.

After a number of complaints and conversations throughout the hall, the board voted to go into executive session to discuss the matter.

After about 30 minutes, the board came back and Mayor Glen Wilson announced that Shafer's resignation from the board was accepted, retroactive to July 1, and she was appointed librarian.

Later in the meeting, Trustees Randy Presswood and Bob Vincent argued about street repairs.

Vincent complained that Presswood was ordering street repairs on Pearl Court using Motor Fuel Tax funds without board approval. Vincent also questioned who was dictating the order the repairs were being completed in.

Presswood said the repairs had been approved.

After brief discussion, the board approved repairs to Timberlake and Minnosa drives.

Several board actions were questioned by people in the audience.

After the board approved hiring Lana Jackson as a part-time worker in the city clerk's office, former clerk Lou Whitsell questioned the hiring, saying it was nepotism.

Jackson is the former sister-in-law of Deputy Clerk Judy Merritt.

Clerk Mary Rowden said she was not aware of the relationship when she decided to hire Jackson.

"I don't care who she's related to," Rowden said.

However, on Friday Rowden said Jackson had turned down the job, mostly because she didn't want to have to deal with village politics.

In another matter, Dan Horton questioned the board's approval of using drug seizure funds to purchase special duty uniforms for the police department.

After complaining to the board, Horton started arguing with Detective Rick Hays, who had answered the board's questions about the uniforms.

Acting Chief Michael Crouch said later the total cost for the uniforms would be about $5,000.

Recycler to keep pitching merf proposal to county

Madison County's designated recycler isn't ready to bag its bid for a materials recovery facility, even though the county has dumped plans to sponsor a center.

Resource Recovery Systems Vice President John Schall said he is developing a new proposal to present to the County Board's Environmental Control Committee for a materials recovery facility, or "clean merf," to process recyclables collected in curbside programs. The county has negotiated with RRS of Essex, Conn., since April, when the company's plan was picked as the best of four proposals for a county-sponsored merf.

However, the Environmental Control Committee voted earlier this month to abandon the sponsorship plan and turn over the merf business to private companies.

"I don't consider the matter closed," Schall said Wednesday. "We will attempt to reopen negotiations. The ball is certainly resting in our court."

Richard Worthen, Environmental Committee chairman, said officials will look at any new proposal, but he said he doubts the committee will change its decision.

"We will not turn anything down, but we will not continue to negotiate," Worthen said.

"We feel we can get what we want from the private sector with no guarantees from the county. There is money to be made for the private sector, and we anticipate more people will get in."

Laidlaw Waste Systems Inc. recently announced plans to open a recycling center at its Roxana landfill. Norton Environmental of Independence, Ohio, also is seeking municipal trash commitments to build an $8 million mixed-waste facility, or "dirty merf," in which residents do not have to sort recyclables, in Wood River's Lewis and Clark Environtech Business Park.

Recycling facilities are needed to meet a state mandate to recycle 25 percent of the county's solid waste by July 1996.

Schall said RRS could compete with Laidlaw and Norton but would not say if the company would pursue a merf without county backing.

"We have 12 facilities around the county competing with Laidlaw, BFI and Waste Management every day. We think we will be up and operating by spring," he said.

He said RRS will make the new proposal and wait for the county to act. "It's up to them."

Joe Parente, the county's building, zoning and environmental director, said the county does not plan to enter into an agreement with RRS.

Laidlaw officials have said there's room for one or two facilities in the county but not three. The Laidlaw center is expected to be operating this fall.

Norton Environmental is seeking trash commitments from municipalities before deciding whether to build its facility.

Granite City was among those Norton was apparently counting on, but a City Council committee last week continued consideration of alternatives.

The council's Sanitation Committee met Tuesday night to discuss a proposed one-year extension of its garbage hauling contract with Waste Management. The current pact is set to expire Aug. 31.

City Comptroller K.P. MacFaggart said that Waste Management had presented a number of options to the city, including curbside recycling programs and hauling garbage to a dirty merf.

Clinton accepts base closings

Area leaders reacted enthusiastically to President Clinton's "reluctant" acceptance of a military base closure list Thursday. Clinton denounced the base closing list Thursday for the damage it would do to California and Texas, but then approved it. "We never thought the list would be rejected," said James Pennekamp, director of Leadership Council Southwestern Illinois, an organization that spearheaded a campaign to save Scott Air Force Base near Belleville and the Charles Melvin Price Support Center in Granite City.

The council also worked with other Illinois and Missouri groups in an effort to save St. Louis' Aviation and Troop Command, which is included on the closure list.

"The savings for this round of closures are already built into the defense budget," Pennekamp said.

U.S. Rep. Jerry Costello, D-Belleville, said he had urged the President to accept the list and was pleased that Clinton did so. Costello added, however, that the news is not entirely good for the St. Louis area.

"While we did very well, we would have liked to see ATCOM remain in St. Louis," he said.

Pennekamp said about 18 percent of ATCOM's 3,600 employees live in Illinois.

"Among the things we did right from the start was to recognize that all of these bases are important to the whole area," he said. "The dollars generated by the bases cross the river."

"I believe an economic case was made for keeping ATCOM in the area, but the Army, for whatever reason, went after ATCOM very aggressively," Pennekamp said. "It wasn't for lack of trying" that ATCOM is set for closure, he said.

Pennekamp said the outcome is strongly positive from a regional perspective.

"We stood to lose in excess of 14,000 jobs at these facilities, and we saved 12,000 of those jobs," taking into account the transfer to Scott of a National Guard unit with 1,600 personnel.

"It could have been a lot worse," he said. "ATCOM has about 3,600 jobs. Nobody wants to see that kind of hit but we initially stood to lose 14,000."

Charles Urban of Alton is one of the workers who be affected by the ATCOM closing.

"I'm very bitter, and I'm very bitter over the fact they would even think about this," Urban said, emphasizing that he was speaking for himself and not ATCOM. "They are taking a major command and putting it in an area that has no major airport and is 20 miles from the nearest interstate."

The Pentagon has proposed moving ATCOM functions to government property in four states including Missile Command in Huntsville, Ala., where Urban may transfer. He said it doesn't make sense from a military or economic standpoint.

"The person hurt the most by all of this will be the soldier in the field," Urban said.

Costello said the ATCOM closing is a bitter pill for the area but that he thinks taxpayers will be best served if the list is accepted. The process was designed to keep presidential and congressional politics out of base closings, he said.

Nationwide, this fourth round of base closures would result in a net loss of 43,742 military and civilian jobs at bases and 49,823 indirect jobs for a total loss of 93,565 jobs.

Aides said Clinton privately accused the commission of being too political but feared rejecting the list would open him to charges of playing politics. The independent base closure commission recommended that 79 bases be closed and 26 others realigned, saving $19.3 billion over 20 years.

Bank to help sponsor art show

By Bonita Tillman
Staff writer

For the first time in its eight-year history, the Midwest Salute to the Masters has garnered major corporate sponsorship from local businesses.

A two-year commitment from Magna Bank will provide $15,000 the first year and $20,000 the second year for the event, which brings the top 100 artists in the country to Fairview Heights to compete.

"We hope to make this a very mutually agreeable relationship," said Carol Warner, a Salute co-director and Ward 1 alderman.

The city pays for the Salute through its hotel-motel tax fund.

Last year, the festival cost the city about $38,000, but many of the other expenses were covered by sponsors, including restaurants, said Warner. She estimated the overall event costs $150,000.

Magna Bank President Tom Holloway told aldermen Tuesday that the company was "no stranger to Fairview Heights" and wanted to solidify its position in the community. "We believe you reinvest in your community by giving back to the community in the way of loans," he said. "This is stepping off the plate and putting an exclamation point on that commitment."

The city has grown not only into a major retail hub, but also is increasing its recognition nationwide with sports events like the Prairie State Games and the Pan American Games, he said.

"Now you're in the top five," Holloway said.

City Clerk Harvey Noubarian, the other co-director, said the city cannot "rest on its laurels," where the Salute to the Masters is concerned.

"In order to grow and continue to improve the Salute, we needed additional, high-caliber, corporate sponsors to guarantee a continued first-rate art festival," he said.

Other corporate sponsors include Target Stores, Pace Properties, Kassidy Mortuary, St. Clair Square, Union Electric, Caseyville Township, Saturn in Metro East, Central Bank and Zeigler Coal.

The Salute will be held Aug. 26-27 in Longacre Park. More than 30,000 people attended last year.

On July 28, 1995 at 10:00 A.M. there will be a sale to enforce the warehousemen's lien according to the SELF-STORAGE ACT passed in 1985.

Early retirement could save county money

SPRINGFIELD — Legislation before Gov. Jim Edgar that would allow counties to offer some employees early retirement options could save Madison County money.

Madison County was among a group of larger counties analyzed this spring by the Illinois Municipal Retirement Fund, said fund legislative liaison Nick Yelverton. "We projected they could expect to save $200,000 in the first year," Yelverton said.

The study indicated that there are 62 Madison County employees eligible for retirement benefits because they have at least 25 years service and are at least 55 years old.

The early retirement incentive would make another 24 employees eligible. Yelverton said the projected savings were based on an assumption that there would be at least a 30 percent reduction in the cost of the current salaries and benefits for the employees taking early retirement. The savings were based on filling positions with new employees at entry-level pay and leaving some positions vacant.

Madison County Board Administrator James Monday said the county hasn't analyzed the legislation yet.

"If the governor signs it, I'm sure we will take a look at it and consider it if it would save us some money," he said.

Madison County is among the 11 largest counties in the state that belong to the Metro Counties Council, a lobbying group that backed the bill.

The bill would give county and township boards the option of offering an early retirement incentive similar to those previously authorized for state employees and teachers.

Municipal employees were not included in the legislation at the request of the Illinois Municipal League.

The bill would let counties and townships offer employees who are at least age 50 and have a minimum of 20 years experience the option to purchase up to five more years' credit toward age and service for their pensions.

The employees would have to contribute an amount equal to 4.5 percent of their highest annual earnings for each additional credit year. However, in the case of Sheriff's Department employees, who have higher benefits, the contribution would be 6.5 percent.

The offer could be made no more than once every five years.

Yelverton said Edgar's office has "some concerns about the bill but we're hopeful they can be resolved and he will sign it."

Edgar has until Aug. 17 to act.

The legislation contains two safeguards that were not in the state employees' early retirement legislation.

One requires the local government to cover the added pension cost for employees who take the incentive within a five- to 10-year period. The other strips the additional pension credits if an employee retires and then goes back to work for a local government under the Pension Fund.

Several state employees who took early retirement were hired back on state payrolls under consulting contracts.

the annual Mayors' Prayer Breakfast, attended by nearly 500 community leaders; contributions toward the purchase of two police K-9 officers; and commissioning a permanent marble and brick monument, to be placed at 27th Street and Delmar Avenue, commemorating the city's 100th anniversary.

Center's 75th anniversary, and the park district's 75th anniversary.

The club also contributed to badly needed new playground equipment at the Lincoln Place Community Center.

"As a young girl growing up in West Granite, I played on the equipment in the 1940s. That equipment was still there last year," Brown recalled.

But community service is only one-third of the Rotary mission, Brown said. District (state) and international service hold equal weight with Rotarians.

"If we, as Rotarians, do all that we should be doing, our community is only one-third of our responsibility," she said.

Toward those ends, the club last year made possible the purchase of two braille copy machines in Brazil and hosted six individuals from South Korea that they might witness the business climate in the United States.

Brown downplayed her part in the accomplishments and emphasized the participation of the entire club.

"None of that could have been done without the great people and the cooperation of the members," she said. "Our Rotary Club has so many resources. For example, the monument could never have been a reality without the cooperation of the bricklayers, the laborers, the contractor and the engineer."

Now that her year as president has passed, Brown will concentrate on her role as the club's community service chairman this year.

She says the attitude of Rotarians has changed dramatically since the international organization was virtually forced by the courts a decade ago to allow female members. She and husband were the first married couple in Illinois — possible anywhere — to be initiated at the same time.

"When I first got into Rotary, it was different. There were women and there were men. Now, I don't think gender enters into it. We're just Rotarians."

"My philosophy is: Let's see what a person can contribute, regardless of gender or race or religion," she said.

Deadline for flood relief

Residents who suffered damages from severe storms and flooding in May have three more weeks to apply for disaster assistance. The application deadline is July 29, 60 days after President Clinton's disaster declaration, Illinois and federal officials said.

Residents may apply for a wide range of state and federal disaster relief programs by calling (800) 462-9029; the speech- or hearing-impaired, call (800) 462-7585.

Nearly $10 million in disaster housing assistance and Small Business Administration loans has been approved for more than 4,000 applicants in 19 Illinois counties that were designated disaster areas.

Relief in those counties included more than $7 million in housing assistance, $251,379 in individual and family grants, $2.6 million in SBA business and home loans and $47,381 in unemployment assistance.

Housing assistance included $813,803 in Madison County.

Almost everyone prospered in the '80s

By Roger McGrath
Correspondent

The 1980s has been labeled the Decade of Greed, an era when the rich got richer and the poor got poorer, complain critics, social commentators and some politicians.

The critics have got the story only half right, according to two recent analyses.

Yes, the rich got richer during the Decade of Greed, but so did everybody else, observes John Weicher, senior fellow at the Hudson Institute.

When poverty is measured by consumption spending instead of annual income, the U.S. poverty rate declined steadily during the 1980s, reports Elizabeth Powers, economist at the Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland.

Both researchers used econometric models (statistical models that verify theories) in arriving at their conclusions. Analyzing data from the 1983 and 1989 Survey of Consumer Finances, a triennial survey by the Federal Reserve Board, Weicher fails to find a widening wealth gap. In fact, the mean wealth for all households climbed 20 percent, to $180,700, he writes in Review, a publication of the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis.

Weicher also found increases when he examined wealth by age and by level of schooling. His conclusion: The distribution of wealth didn't change all that much from 1983 to 1989, a period of economic expansion.

The poverty rate, when defined by annual spending and not by income, dropped steadily from 12 percent in 1980 to about 8 percent in 1989, says economist Elizabeth Powers.

Over the same period, the government's official poverty rate climbed from 12-plus percent in 1980 to 15 percent in 1989, then slid to 13 percent by 1989.

Moreover, her findings suggest that the link between economic growth and declining poverty is as strong as in the 1960s. "The poor benefit from a vigorously expanding economy," she says, noting that each percentage point increase in Gross Domestic Product trims the poverty rate 0.2 percent.

Heartland names CPA president

Michael Linder, a certified public accountant, has been named president of Heartland Healthcare, a multispecialty physician group whose members are on staff at St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

He joins the group from the national consulting firm of Medimetrix Group, where he assisted the group in its development.

"I like the challenge of leading and growing an organization," Linder said. "The reason I am here is because this organization has the key ingredients to be successful."

"We have committed physicians who are quality-oriented and success-driven individuals with the appropriate financial level to the project."

"Personally, I selected this organization because the physicians and the medical center relationship is more matched with my views and values. We all believe in family and have good morals," he said. "St. El is also well positioned geographically because of the market. I like being with a winning team."

Linder earned his undergraduate degree at the University of Cincinnati in Cincinnati, Ohio, and completed his master's degree at Case Western University in Cleveland, Ohio.

He began his career at Arthur

Anderson, a national accounting firm, before becoming the chief operation officer of a 40-doctor group.

He then developed and ran a physician group practice management company for a national organization before joining Medimetrix.

He has worked in group practice management and consulting for nine years.

My view

3 bills later, lawn still a mess

When I moved into my new home several years ago, my lawn contained one of the world's great collections of weeds, but not a blade of grass. Last October, tired of the snickers of my greener neighbors, I decided to go on the attack. I was tired of my lawn being the wimp of the neighborhood.

I called a lawn service for advice. The representative of the lawn service immediately assured me that I had called the right place. Modern technology had put a man on the moon, and certainly a few weeds would be no problem for the lawn service's highly sophisticated technology.

For just a few hundred dollars, I could have a lawn that would be the envy of the neighborhood. I had visions of green grass waving gently in the breeze while children and puppies frolicked. Although I previously have no children or puppies left at home, I immediately wrote a check. Last fall the service sprayed weed killer on my lawn, and within days all the weeds were dead and gone. Unfortunately, now I had a quarter-acre of brown dirt instead. Not worry, my friendly service rep assured me, for a small charge he would seed and fertilize my lawn so I would have a beautiful lawn in spring. I wrote another check.

Early in spring, my dreams came true. A beautiful, lush lawn appeared just as promised, without a weed in sight. It had cost a bundle, but it was worth it.

A few weeks later, nature struck back. A few brown spots appeared at random places on the lawn. I immediately notified the lawn service, and a representative came out and sprayed again. Another bill.

By June the brown spots had multiplied tenfold. In some places the grass was dead. Crabgrass began to show itself in the dead spots almost immediately. My lawn was the only one in the neighborhood with these problems. I could sense my neighbors beginning to whisper behind my back. I was getting mad, very mad. I called my wizard of modern technology at the lawn service and demanded an immediate personal visit. A few days later he called to say he had inspected my lawn and I had fungus. The way he said "fungus" sounded like I was lacking in personal hygiene. The only fungus I had ever heard of was the one mentioned in television advertising. "Are you trying to tell me my lawn is dying of athlete's foot?" I asked. "Why hasn't your spraying cured it if I have it?" "Our service doesn't cover fungus," he replied. I reminded him he had never mentioned a fungus exemption when he promised me the lawn of my dreams. "How come my lawn is the only lawn in the neighborhood with fungus?" I asked.

"Nature works in mysterious ways," he responded.

I pointed out that he, not Mother Nature, cashed my checks and promised me a beautiful lawn.

"Well, what do you expect me to do about it?" he asked. I suggested for a start he could return my money. He suggested I lie down with a cool cloth on my head until my hallucinations passed.

I suggested that I would be willing to supply him with some customer-sensitivity training, starting with a free home horsehipping. He suggested I was overreacting.

The following day I received two "Past Due" notices in the mail reminding me that I had not yet paid for my last lawn treatment.

Well, nature won. The brown spots are increasing daily. The crabgrass is multiplying. My dream of becoming the envy of the neighborhood is dead. It's lucky that we didn't send men to the moon to kill the crabgrass or they probably would still be there.

At 3:15 pm Thursday, Granite City hit its high of 104 degrees, according to this Central Bank sign.

Heat

temperatures go above 104 degrees. Less severe cases are referred to as heat exhaustion.

The hospital has treated several other people for heat exhaustion throughout the week, averaging about one per evening, according to hospital officials.

Gauen said the emergency room has also received numerous calls about how to deal with heat-related problems.

With the temperature topping 100 degrees Wednesday and Thursday, Gauen said the hospital was prepared for more heat exhaustion and heat stroke cases.

"We've literally drug out our hazardous materials decontamination table," she said.

That table is normally used to wash chemicals and other contaminants from victims. In this case, it can be used to cool people down quickly.

Gauen said she has also purchased fans, and the emergency room is keeping cooled IV fluids ready.

She added that the hospital was making plans to continue treating heat cases through the weekend.

In severe heat cases, she said the most important thing is to return the body temperature to normal within about 45 minutes.

The hospital uses a combination of cold water, fans and IV fluids to bring down body temperature. In the most severe cases, she said, ice water is pumped into the victim's stomach.

Most heat victims are the elderly, sick or children. As the temperature rises, she said, the weather is considered dangerous when temperatures go above 90 degrees and humidity above 50 percent.

To avoid problems, people are advised to stay indoors whenever possible.

Other advice includes:

- Drink lots of fluids, but avoid alcohol.
- Eat lightly.
- Reduce activity during the hottest part of the day.
- Take the heat seriously. Don't ignore dangers signs of nausea, dizziness or fatigue.
- Stay out of direct sunlight.
- Wear light, loose clothing.
- Reduce salt intake.

Have often. Take several cool showers or baths daily to keep body temperature down.

trying to figure out the best way to keep safe and cool.

For me, it means staying in the office with an ice pack on my head and a jug of freezing water nearby.

And at about noon, I think of two friends who spent the past week canoeing on the Current River, and wishing I was there with them.

That's one of those rivers where water explodes out of springs at about 50 degrees.

But while most of us try to cope, there are a few profiting from from all this misery.

Dave Polivick, Granite City Park District director, is one of those.

He has seen attendance at the Wilson Park pool skyrocket since last week.

As the temperature has risen, so has attendance at the pool, now in its second year.

On July 5, pool attendance was 274. Monday it was up to 521, and exploded to 722 by Wednesday.

"Sometimes I look over there and it's standing room only," Polivick said.

Who cares, as long as they are standing in cool water? So stay hydrated, go to the pool, and drink lots of water.

Just don't laugh at the ice pack on my head.

Tours on Tuesdays at garden

The Open Gate Tour Garden, 2200 Vandalla, Collinsville, will begin public tours on Tuesday, July 18, from 9 a.m. until noon.

Tours will be held every Tuesday through Sept. 12. No reservations are required. Groups of any size are welcome, including single participants.

Special tours at additional times may be scheduled by calling the Cooperative Extension Service, 692-7700 or 226-8900.

The Garden is a research demonstration garden supported by the Master Gardener volunteers of the Madison-St. Clair unit of the Cooperative Extension Service. The site is that of the Collinsville Area Recreation Center.

Some areas of the garden are designed for research, while other areas demonstrate interesting varieties of plants.

Steamboat paddles past St. Louis area

By Glen Sparks Staff writer

Nostalgia steams up and down the Mississippi River.

In the case of the American Queen, it does so with strength, beauty and a 60-ton red paddle wheel.

This 436-passenger steamboat brings to life the era of Mark Twain and his adventures on the Mississippi River.

The American Queen stopped in St. Louis July 4 on route to New Orleans on its inaugural voyage. Visitors to Fair St. Louis could watch and hear this tribute to a different time in history.

Designers did make a few concessions to the twilight years of the 20th century. There's a swimming pool, elevators and a gift shop that sells T-shirts, for instance.

Mostly, though, the American Queen stays true to the classic steamboat.

Its twin black smokestacks rise 100 feet above the river.

Passengers can relax in mahogany and walnut chairs. A stuffed black bear towers in one corner of the gentlemen's cabin room. Books that describe tales of romance decorate the ladies' parlor.

"In one room, you are going to see ladies playing bridge, listening to a Victrola and doing hand embroidery," says Al Luthmers, head of the American Queen design team.

"In the other, you will see a bunch of men smoking cigars and keeping company with bears and bears."

In the Mark Twain Gallery, passengers can read about local wildlife, steamboat history and river memorabilia. They can look through the windows at the changing river scenery and admire the period artwork on the wall.

A chandelier, similar to one at the St. Louis Exposition early in the century, brightens the Midship Lobby.

It's sunlight that bathes the dining room. Long windows line the 17-foot high walls. Passengers can enjoy an after-dinner show in the Grand Saloon. Then it's time to get on the deck at the Engine Room Bar, a walk on the observation deck or a good night's sleep.

Many of the staterooms offer panoramic views of the river.

"We've included all the deluxe ocean cruise ship; but overall, we have modeled this boat on the classic steamboat palaces described by Mark Twain," Luthmers says.

The cruise began June 26. It left Pittsburgh and moved west on the Ohio River. When it met the Mississippi at Cairo, Ill., the American Queen took a right-hand turn and headed north to St. Louis.

After a short stay here, it made an about-face and should arrive July 13 in New Orleans.

The trip roughly retraces the 1811 journey of the New Orleans, the first steamboat to ever travel the inland waters.

Nicholas Roosevelt, an ancestor of Theodore Roosevelt, served as captain on the boat.

For about two weeks before entering the hospital for open-heart surgery, Madison County State's Attorney William Haine said, "Bob was an excellent supervisor and did many good things in that office. It was very unfortunate. He was preparing for heart surgery."

Harris is survived by his wife, Marilyn, a son, a daughter, a brother and a sister.

Funeral services were held Saturday at the Davis Funeral Home in Granite City. Burial was in Sunset Hill Cemetery, Edwardsville.

Mississippi for a time.

"The Indians thought the boat caused the earthquake," says Matt Young, a spokesman for the Delta Queen Co. "That journey opened up the river, though."

Steamboats exist today more for fun than dangerous exploration.

Cruises are not cheap, however. A 16-day trip in one of the top suites costs $9,420 per person. A seven-day trip in a middle-of-the-line room costs $2,780 per person.

It may take a true riverman to explain the allure. Lawrence

Keeton is captain of the American Queen.

He speaks with a southern drawl and of a life spent in and around America's most famous river.

"Like all boys, I was told to stay away from the river," says Keeton, a Memphis native.

"I like all boys, of course, I didn't mind my mother. The river was my playground."

Keeton learned to swim in the river.

"There was a fascination to the river that was part of our lives."

accessible to anyone with a complaint. "If people want to talk to me, they'll get to me," he said in a 1990 interview.

Harris was a past president of the state County Assessment Officials Association.

He began selling real estate in 1967 while still a firefighter and made it his full-time occupation after suffering a heart attack at a fire in 1972.

Ming said Harris had been off work since June 9. She said he had surgery to correct some circulatory problems, then was home for about two weeks before entering the hospital for open-heart surgery.

Madison County State's Attorney William Haine said, "Bob was an excellent supervisor and did many good things in that office. It was very unfortunate. He was preparing for heart surgery."

Harris is survived by his wife, Marilyn, a son, a daughter, a brother and a sister.

Funeral services were held Saturday at the Davis Funeral Home in Granite City. Burial was in Sunset Hill Cemetery, Edwardsville.

Swiss Scientists Discover New Energy Product

Lugano, Switzerland—After 25 years of research Lightning 828 was developed with the help of Swiss Laboratories. After extensive testing with amazing results, Lightning 828 is now available in the United States. Scientists are amazed at Lightning 828's results on improved memory, attitude and athletic performance.

In a double blind cross-over trial on university students in Italy, Lightning 828 was given twice daily for 12 weeks. The results were astonishing. Students obtained higher scores in math, logic and physical education.

This new discovery has been a windfall for working and active people that seem to run short of energy around mid-afternoon and need a little extra lift. Lightning 828, when taken in the morning gives a sustained, balanced form of energy throughout the day.

During an interview in Chicago, a beautician stated, "I used to go home exhausted after being on my feet all day. Now it's just incredible. I go home with extra energy and really enjoy my family more." Lightning 828 is a necessary boost for students, professionals and senior citizens.

Lightning 828 is now available at most K-Mart Pharmacies including:

M-C squads take center stage in PSG tourney

Among the appeals of the 12th annual Prairie State Games scheduled to begin with opening ceremonies Friday at the SIU-Edwardsville track and field stadium are: 1. admission to all events is free, and 2. baseball.

For the first time in the games' history, men's baseball will be a part of the events moved from Peoria to Fairview Heights, where the Longacre Park baseball field will host the championship.

From a personal standpoint, the Games will feature eight of the best men's baseball teams in the state with the Sunday, July 23 title game being just one of several worth attending. "I've been told there will be teams from Bloomington, Rockford and Chicago, and all I can say is bring them on," said Mon-Clair League president Mel Patton, who is anxiously awaiting the showing of M-C representatives Granite City and Waterloo, winners of 1994 divisional crowns.

A former County League baseball star even before he had graduated from Belleville Township High, Patton long has boasted the Mon-Clair League, which once stood in contrast to the Central Illinois Collegiate League that had a team in Fairview Heights.

"Our league is the best men's league in Illinois as well as in the Midwest," said Patton. "If the press is too proud, the Prairie State Games will allow observers to decide for them, but what makes the Mon-Clair perspective even more interesting is that as part of their 22-man rosters for the Games, Granite and Waterloo will be allowed to draft four players from other M-C teams. "We set it up that each of our entrants could take one player from each of the other four teams in their division," said Patton.

Thus, Granite City, the leader of the North Division, could select from Edwardsville, East Alton, O'Fallon and East St. Louis. Meanwhile, Waterloo, the leader of the South Division, could choose from Millstadt, Valmeyer, Saugee and Belleville.

"There's no indication of what players will be chosen as yet," said Patton, "but it's obvious in eight-team pool play the teams will have to have plenty of pitching."

Supporting such thinking is the fact that Granite City's Darin Hendrickson pitched two complete games in the Clippers' three-game sweep in the July 4th Valmeyer Classic.

Statistically though, it would appear that Granite City's Waterloo would not need too much assistance to bolster lineups that already are strong. Hendrickson, for instance, had a 0.80 earned run average and 5-0 record in regular season play prior to the Valmeyer event with 27 strikeouts and just four bases on balls while allowing only 28 hits in 35 innings.

Teammate Brian Harshany was at 1.71 with a 4-0 record, 14 strikeouts, three walks and 24 hits allowed in 24 1/3 innings.

Harshany also was among the team's hitting leaders with a .333 batting average. He had first baseman John Moad at .481, followed by second baseman Jeff Stephens (.400), right fielder Jeff Ridenour (.333) and shortstop Jamie Hogan (.304).

While pitching and defense are integral for Granite City player-manager Daren DePew, Waterloo features seven players over .300 and booming bats that accounted for an average of 14.5 runs per game during a six-game M-C stretch.

As the league neared its all-star game July 19 at Waterloo, the Buds were led by former minor league Mike Wirth (.518), John Wahlig (.420), John Baxmeyer (.396), Jim Wahlig (.370), Jeff Kaiser (.364), Neil Fiala (.353) and Clay Moehrs (.308).

Waterloo pitching leaders included Brian Smith (4-0, 3.25) and Cole Proffer (4-1, 3.73) with hard-throwing relief ace Todd McClure (3.30) available for starting duty when necessary.

Jason Wood began the American Legion season with a 12-game hitting streak. He is currently batting .435 after hitting .378 with the Warriors last season.

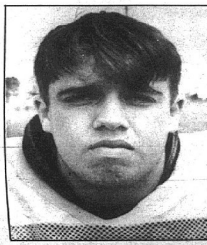

GCHS lineman Hahn picks Culver-Stockton

By Rob Raphael
Staff writer

Several colleges were in the running for the services of Granite City football player Eric Hahn, but in the end it was the desire to play that helped Hahn with his choice. Hahn, 18, will attend Culver-Stockton College in Canton, Mo., this fall, having received a scholarship to attend the four-year school. He was also considering MacMurray, Millikin and Blackburn College among others, but the staff at C-S-C helped him make up his mind.

"IT WAS THE friendliness of the staff that convinced me it was the place to go," said Hahn, a 5-foot-11, 205-pound defensive lineman. "They were great, and they had my welfare in mind. That was the biggest reason I chose to play there." And No. 2 on the reason depth-chart was playing time. A relatively small player for the defensive line, Hahn said he believes he will get more of a chance to play at the NIAA. (See HAHN, Page 3B)

Amateur golf tourney thrill for Tessary

By Rob Raphael
Staff writer

Winning isn't everything. Sometimes just getting a chance to play can be the thrill of a lifetime.

That's the case with Terry Tessary, a Granite City native who recently was chosen to play in the Missouri Amateur Golf Championship, held at St. Albans Golf Course in west St. Louis County last month.

TESSARY, WHO NOW lives in Collinsville, is part-owner of the Arlington Golf Club, located in the Arlington Heights subdivision between Granite City and Collinsville. Even though Arlington is located in Illinois, it is still a Missouri Amateur member course.

"There are so many people that want to play in that tournament," Tessary said, "and it's so hard to qualify. I feel like I did pretty well, with everything considered."

Tessary was one of 150 golfers who qualified for the championship. He shot the low round at Lake Forest Country Club in the tourney.

After the qualifying round, the golfers went to two days of medal play, where the field was cut to 64. Tessary also made it out of that round, but he lost his initial match-play round to a Kansas City-area golfer. Still, he is proud of his 71 score at Lake Forest and his 149 two-day total at St. Albans.

"I THOUGHT I played my best golf in the qualifying," he said. "I played all right in the medal rounds, and didn't shoot badly in the match play. But I know I could have shot better, and if so it would have lessened the sting of losing."

Arlington Golf Club's Terry Tessary recently competed in the Missouri Amateur Golf Championship and advanced to the match-play round.

The staggering aspect of Tessary's success is the fact that he seldom gets the chance to practice as much as he would like.

"I'm 47 years old," he said, "and I have my share of physical ailments right now. Accomplishing what I did was fine, but when I feel healthy I can practice and do a lot better. I play in tournaments here and there, but I don't play as much as I would like to."

Tessary is a former teacher who taught at Granite City North High School. Shortly before the campus closed, he switched to elementary school teaching, where he worked until he became part-owner of Arlington in 1981.

TESSARY ALSO HAS a daughter who is one of the top high-school level golfers in the area. Susan Tessary, who will be a senior at Collinsville High School this fall, recently did well in the Women's Pub Links championship and also competed in a state tournament in Pekin.

"I'm tickled to death with her success," he said. "I think the traveling she's doing will help her a lot."

Wood on fire with Triplets

Post 113 slugger preparing for college baseball

By Rob Raphael
Staff writer

With the sometimes rocky road taken by the Tri-City Triplets this summer, one needs a calming, steady influence.

That is the role taken on by Jason Wood, who has been the one constant for Tri-City, day in and day out.

WOOD HAS HIT in all but three games this summer while playing shortstop, and at one time he had a 12-game hitting streak. He is batting a robust .435 for manager Doug Winfield and the Triplets, after hitting .378 for Granite City High School this spring as a senior.

"He's been hitting real well all summer," Winfield said recently. "He's been our only real consistent hitter. There's been others who have done a good job and got big hits for us, but Jason's the only one who consistently gets good swings at the plate."

Wood, 18, said everything has fallen into place for him this summer, and he added some special instruction by Triplets assistant coach Jim Greenwald brought him over the top.

"I had a good spring, but I'm swinging the bat even better this summer," Wood said. "Everything's been going very well, and Coach Greenwald has helped me a lot. He got me to adjust my batting stance, and change it around a little."

"I had a good spring, but I'm swinging the bat even better this summer. Everything's been going very well."

— Jason Wood
Tri-City shortstop

"It's made my hands a lot quicker, and helped me see the ball better. Last year, I didn't hit well as a junior, but I've really hit better my senior year and now this summer."

THAT SHOULD MAKE the coaches at St. Louis University very happy. Wood will play next year for the Billikens and coach Bob Hughes, who said he was happy to hear about Wood's success.

"We knew we were getting a fine individual and a good player when we signed him," Hughes said of Wood. "To hear that he's improved is a plus, because I'm sure the talent level is higher here than he's faced before."

"It should be interesting," Wood said of the competition at the Division I level. "I'm sure they have a lot of good hitters and pitchers up there, but I'm looking forward to it. I'll have to prove myself all over again."

Area players chosen for PSG tennis

The Southern Region tennis teams have been named for the Prairie State Games, to be held July 21-23 in southwestern Illinois.

The open men's team includes Robbie Summer of Edwardsville (a club pro in St. Louis), Dave Perlee of Granite City, Jason Geminn (a Belleville East graduate who will be a junior at Baylor University after playing two years at SIU-Edwardsville), Joe Harwood (Belleville East, Belleville Area College and SIUE) and Bob Keefe, girls tennis coach at Belleville West. Keefe is also tennis coordinator for the Southern Region.

THE OPEN WOMEN'S team features twins Amy and Sara Hazen of Wood River, who won the state doubles championship in 1991. The Hazens will play next season at SIUE after transferring from Southwest Missouri State. Other members of the squad are Alison Fournier, a graduate of Belleville East and the University of Arizona who plays in an adult league at Oak Hill Racquet Club in Belleville; and Diane Sims, who also plays at Oak Hill.

The scholastic men's team includes Laramie Gavin of Bethalto, a sectional doubles champion in 1995; Jake Hardmon, a former Belleville East standout; Ryan Lakin, a junior at Belleville West and Brad Lunnie, a senior at Belleville West.

Mon-Clair All-Stars set to clash

By Rob Raphael
Staff writer

Once again, it's time for southwestern Illinois' premier baseball event. The 29th Annual Mon-Clair League All-Star Game is set for 8 p.m. Wednesday at Gibault Field in Waterloo.

Game organizers are hopeful that rains don't postpone the game, as has been the case two of the last three years.

"WE ARE HOPEFUL that the game will go as scheduled," league president Mel Patton said. "If not, then we'll reschedule like we have done in the past. But everybody's ready to go for Wednesday, and hopefully it won't be too hot either."

There are several special attractions planned for this year's event. Rich Hacker, former major league player and coach, will throw out the ceremonial first pitch. Hacker was the third-base coach for five seasons for the St. Louis Cardinals.

Also on hand will be the Bud Light Brigade, a band that will provide pre-game musical entertainment, and the Waterloo Barber Shoppers will sing the national anthem.

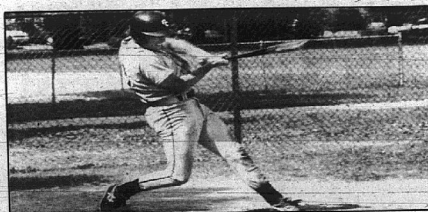

The All-Star game dates back to 1966, when Greater County defeated Mon-Clair 8-2. Monroe Division has won the all-time series with a 17-8 record against teams of St. Clair County and of Greater County Division.

LAST YEAR, Monroe defeated St. Clair 5-4, as MVP Jim Wahlig threw out the potential tying run at home plate for the final out of the game. Last year represented Wahlig's fifth All-Star MVP award, which is a league record.

Wahlig also had an RBI double, scored a run in the potential tying run at home plate for the final out of the game. Last year represented Wahlig's fifth All-Star MVP award, which is a league record.

Tri-City shortstop Jason Wood smacked a three-run homer in Tuesday's 6-4 victory over Collinsville.

•Wood—

Through Thursday night's game with Fairview Heights, Wood's statistics with the Triplets were impressive. Besides his batting average, he has two home runs and eight doubles on the year, with a total of 13 RBIs.

HE SAID HE thinks the Triplets can play more consistently than they've shown this summer.

"Our defense has been good, except for that weekend in Springfield (Mo.)," Wood said. "We have some new people in the infield, but our overall defense has been solid. I think those five games (at the Ash Grove tourney) caught up with us. It's been a busy schedule for us this summer."

Wood said that besides the help from Greenwald, he has received valuable instruction from GCHS coach Gus Lignouli and also former Junior Triplets coach and current GCHS athletic director Jerry McKeehan.

"If we can make it through this week, we'll be all right," Wood said of the Triplets' schedule. "I still think Collinsville is the team to beat in our division."

LAST WEEK, the Triplets defeated Post 365 6-4 with Wood's three-run homer leading the way.

"Our pitching has been pretty good, and the hitting has been good, too, some nights," Wood said. "We just need to put it all together, and I think we'll have a real good shot in the playoffs."

•Hahn—

Division II school.

"They told me they pretty much decide everything at the camp, which I liked," Hahn said. "This year they have a lot of seniors, but the next year there should be some openings."

Eric's father, Steve Hahn, said he and his wife Marilyn had also talked to other Granite City alumni who went to C-SC, and they apparently gave the school favorable marks.

"WE HEARD GOOD things from them, and we went up and visited the dorms and looked around a while back," Steve Hahn said. "All of that was nice, but the decision was Eric's and I think he wanted to go to a school where he would have a good chance to play."

Eric Hahn said he had talked extensively to Culver-Stockton coach Al Tamborelli, and he was excited about joining the Wildcat program. Tamborelli is beginning his fourth year at C-SC.

Culver-Stockton is a member of the Heart of America Athletic Conference and plays such teams as William Jewell College and Evangel College.

The college was founded in 1853 and is home to approximately 1,100 students. Hahn said his major was undecided.

ANOTHER FACTOR in choosing C-SC was the Wildcats' need for a long snapper, something which Hahn also did in high school.

"I think I can also compete better at that level," Hahn said. "I am small compared to some linemen, although I would like to come into camp at about 220 pounds."

Hahn is set to report to Canton on August 18.

He said he had received a lot of help through his football years at GCHS, including instruction from coaches Tim Moran, Larry Curry, Don Harris and Daren DePew.

HE SAID A large influence on him was freshman coach Gene Gunderson, who taught him many of the basics he still uses today.

Hahn said he felt like football might be in his future when he played football during his sophomore year, when he said he fell in love with the game. Also a basketball and baseball player at GCHS, football continues to be his favorite.

He said he got by in high school mostly by outsmarting the opposition. He said he will need to improve on his speed to compete at the college level.

"It was just a matter of knowing what to do in high school," Hahn said. "I'll have to be better to play at the next level."

•All-Stars

"The All-Star game is a chance for everyone to shine, but it seems like this is Jim's game lately," Patton said. "He is truly one of the great players in the history of this league."

This year's game will again be a contest between the two top managers in the league: Granite City's Daren DePew and Waterloo's Vern Mochers.

Appropriately, the St. Clair (North) Division roster is full of Granite City players.

Six Clippers have been named to the starting North Division lineup, and three more have been named as reserves.

JOHN MOAD (.481) will start at first base, Jeff Stephens (.400) at second and Jamie Hogan (.324) at shortstop. East Alton's Eric Decker (.506) rounds out the infield at third base.

Tim Hogan (.288) will represent Granite City in center field and will be joined by East Alton's Mark Briggs and O'Fallon's Greg Haake in the outfield.

DePew (.305) gets the nod behind the plate, and he will catch the league's best pitcher—the Clippers' Daren Hendrickson (5-0, 0.80 ERA). East Alton's Brian Kasting will be the starting designated hitter for the North.

AMONG THE SQUAD'S reserves will be Granite City outfielder John Spolanski (.263) and pitchers Jeff Ridenour (1-0, 1.00 ERA) and Mark Winfield (1-1, 3.50 ERA).

Starting for the South Division will be first baseman Mike Wirth of Waterloo (.518), second baseman Jesse Bugger of Sauget (.359), shortstop Jeff Kaiser of Waterloo (.364) and third baseman Brian Gelack of Millstadt (.400).

The outfield will feature Jason Cavanaugh of Sauget (.359), Jim Wahlig (.370) and brother John Wahlig, also from Waterloo (.420).

John Baxmeyer of Waterloo (.390) will do the catching, and Millstadt pitcher Roy Tippet (.4-1, 2.65 ERA) will start. Dwayne Johnston of Millstadt will handle the DH chores.

Metro East Masters bowlers set for player draft, season

The Metro East Masters Bowling League begins its third season at 7 p.m. Tuesday with the drafting of players by the team captains.

This season, the MEMBL will have 12 teams, with five persons per team. Team captains will select the remaining four members of their squads during the draft.

THE LEAGUE HAS expanded to three centers, with Panorama Lanes in Belleville joining St. Clair Bowl in O'Fallon and Bel-Air Bowl in Belleville. The season will start at 9:15 p.m. on Monday, Aug. 21 at St. Clair; the league will rotate each week among the three sites. There will be a regular season and playoffs with the championship set for May 13, 1996. The MEMBL will not bowl on Christmas day or New Year's day.

The motto for the league is "Bowling For a Purpose." Once again, each team will be partnered with a local organization, trying to win money from the charity fund for its charity. Last season the MEMBL raised and distributed $3,000 from the fund to all of its charities.

The players also participate in trying to win prize money. Each player pays $13 a week into a prize fund that is distributed at a banquet at the end of the season. The estimated prize for the upcoming season is $25,000.

It's not too late to enter the draft. To be eligible, a bowler must be at least 18 years old and have a 190 or better average in at least one league during the summer. Bowlers must fill out an official MEMBL application form, which is available at the three bowling centers. The deadline is midnight on Monday, July 17.

Last season the league knocked down more than 1 million pins, with a league average of 212.6. Five 600 series were rolled along with 10 perfect 300 games. The MEMBL averaged five 700 series per week. The league is ranked in the top 20 nationally among similar leagues by the ABC.

Sunday, July 16
The Pisces moon is kind to those striving to better themselves. Having clear vision, especially when looking inward, adds power to your pursuits. A lunar aspect (trine) involving the sun in Cancer and low-plan- et Venus also in Cancer creates a lucky atmosphere for airing emotional issues, especially with family or sweethearts. Nurturing young ones, training pets and holding family discussions are all favored.

The event you have been awaiting is finally here—share it with someone you love. Your romantic partner opens up whole new worlds to you. You are reimbursed for expenses involving repairs and damages. Be prudent.

'Batman Forever' sets the weekend box-office record

"Batman Forever" had the wealthiest debut in Hollywood history, selling $52.8 million in tickets as it rode a wave of hype ranging from sneak previews to hamburgers.

The third "Batman" film broke the weekend opening record of $50.2 million set by "Jurassic Park" in 1993, Warner Bros. said recently.

The studio and its promotional partners will spend $60 million advertising the movie—as much as it cost to make it. Starring Val Kilmer, Jim Car-rey and Tommy Lee Jones, the film debuted in a record 4,300 North American movie theaters. "You have to spend money to make money," said Hal Vogel, an entertainment industry analyst at Cowen & Co. "But the movie will be profitable. There's no doubt about that."

Warner Bros. tried its most diverse marketing effort yet to push "Batman Forever" into theaters. The studio began running a sneak preview trailer in theaters in December, bought significant television advertising joined with McDonald's in a promotion that includes 30 million tray liners and a triple-play Super Hero Burger.

The next few weeks may be the true test. "The way pictures open these days, they burn through the audience interest quickly," Vogel said. "It's very deceptive: You don't know how strong it is until you get to the second weekend."

D. Barry Beardon, Warner Bros. president of distribution, said second weekend will show whether "Batman Forever" has positive word-of-mouth and is on a pace to match the first two "Batman" films, which made $251.2 million and $162.8 million, respectively.

During the last several years, marketing costs for movies have surged. The major studios spend about $14 million advertising an average movie, up from $5.2 million a decade ago. Although the average movie costs close to $30 million to produce, many are made for about $10 million.

The studios are always looking for inventive ways to promote their films, especially during the highly competitive summer season. Disney spent well in excess of $1 million for its June 10 Central Park East release of "Pocahontas." The publicity and awareness the free premiere generated was worth much more.

In its first weekend of limited release, playing in a half-dozen theaters, "Pocahontas" grossed a staggering $448,000 per location.

'Species' a great summer sci-fi thriller

In the "Alien" trilogy, the biggest fear was that the creature would make it to Earth and multiply.

But "Species," MGM's excellent new sci-fi thriller, an even more dangerous alien is already among us. She's Sil, a feral survival machine with an angelic face who is driven by an unrelenting desire to procreate. Sil was created by scientist Xavier Fitch (Ben Kingsley) in a secret American laboratory. Using so-called "friendly" instructions relayed from outer space, he makes a mixture of human and alien. The resulting life form grows into a seemingly normal 14-year-old girl within weeks. But when videotape reveals spikes protruding out of Sil's back while she sleeps, a fearful Fitch decides to exterminate his creation.

But Sil escapes into the desert and makes her way to Los Angeles. By the time she arrives, the creature has matured into a stunning 20-year-old woman (Natasha Henstridge).

So the secretive Fitch, now Sil's Preston Lennox (Michael Madsen), a former CIA operative; Dan Smithson (Forest Whitaker), an empath who understands the emotions of other living beings; molecular biologist Dr. Laura Baker (Marg Helgenberger); and Dr. Stephen Arden (Alfred Molina). Their problem is that Sil has all the well-scaling, flesh-tearing "gifts" of the old "Alien" plus a new weapon: the ability to seduce a man and draw willing victims into a deadly embrace.

Designed by H.R. Giger, who won an Academy Award for conceiving the creature in "Alien," Sil is a muting melange of black, translucent skin, exotic human female components and inhuman qualities. She skitters like a crab, scales walls like a spider and zaps victims with octopus-like tentacles.

In her human form, the cunning Sil melds seamlessly into the decadent L.A. club scene. As Arden points out, Los Angeles, with its mobile population, is the perfect hideaway. "Very little in this town is taboo or unacceptable," he says. As she searches for a suitable mate—there's a swathe through a few Hollywood smoothies and brutally annihilates any perceived female competition.

In a final battle, Sil faces off against Fitch's team in the sewers beneath L.A.'s Biltmore Hotel.

Director Roger Donaldson ("No Way Out," "The Getaway") maintains the pace and tension throughout the movie without allowing the special effects to drown out the story. He includes a dramatic jump cut from the dripping alien goo of Sil's cocoon to a delicious shot of the slinky actress in her lacy underwear.

The pick-up and date scenes from scriptwriter Dennis Feldman inject witty, cathartic humor into the thriller.

Newcomer Henstridge is perfect as a lethal creature with no conscience. Driven by base instincts—survive, eat, procreate—there's a creepy insect coldness behind her beautiful eyes. Michelle Williams conveys the same chilling otherworldly quality in the movie's eeriest scenes as young Sil.

Kingsley is a nicely restrained presence who works well in an ensemble of lesser known but sturdy actors such as Madsen and Molina.

The only annoying note is the empath, well played by Whitaker, but a character clearly created to keep the team from getting too scientific in its search and destroy mission.

In a summer of bombastic "blockbuster" movies, Donaldson is a refreshingly restrained and disciplined director. The special effects, actors and humor blend smoothly—no one part gets in the way of story and action.
